

113 at Flint Killed by Tornado; Michigan-Ohio Death Toll 139

FLINT, June 9 (AP) — A volley of tornadoes roared through southeastern Michigan and northwestern Ohio last night, staggering the two states with an appalling toll which today hit 139 dead and 750 injured.

Flint, Lansing city of 163,000, about 50 miles northeast of Lansing, lay like a bullseye bomb target in the wake of the most deadly of the half dozen or more horrifying twisters. Mangled bodies of 113 victims were scattered over the city's outskirts, state police reported.

Forty houses on one street in the Flint outskirts were leveled with one fell swoop. Casualties ran high.
